

Your Beginning?

Understanding when you began your life is simple science. Before you were conceived, there was no you. The moment you were conceived, you became alive and existed inside your mother.

You were a tiny living unconscious being, alive and growing with your own human DNA. DNA testing proves you were a separate living individual; you were not a piece of your mother's body. The fact that you were growing declares you were alive. It takes life to reproduce living cells, and you are the only human being who can reproduce cells containing your personal DNA; your mother can not produce them for you. It is basic science.

The idea/concept that you came to life somewhere between conception and birth is not true; it is just untrue talk. It is not science; it is not based on the facts.

Scientific Facts

- Human life starts at conception ("your conception" means "your beginning") .
- DNA tests prove you are a separate individual from conception. You grow inside your mother. Your DNA declares you are not a part or a piece of your mother's body. The act of growing declares you are alive.
- Biologically, every human being is actually living human tissue: embryonic tissue; fetal tissue; infant tissue; toddler tissue; teenage tissue; adult tissue; senior citizen tissue; etc.

When you came into existence, you changed other people's lives. If you came into existence before your mother was ready to have her life changed, you could of messed up your mother's life, and her plans for the future. This could have given her, and her parents, great anxiety.

Maybe your mother did not want to have her life changed at that time; she might have been very anxious and desperate, not knowing what to do. People might have been advising her to have an abortion, telling her, "The government gives you the right to have an abortion"; and spoke to your mother as if you, her son or daughter, did not exist yet. They may have told your mother "It's your body, you can do what you want." They may have tried to dehumanize you by calling you tissue, to make it sound as if you were not a human being, but just a mass of non-personal cells with a heartbeat?

Most people are intelligent; they knew you existed. They knew an abortion was putting you to death, even if they said otherwise. An embryo/fetus genuinely being a living human being is very simple and common science.

Nevertheless, many people might have worked hard trying to justify killing you at an abortion center. They would buried their heads in the sand, and pretend you did not exist, and they knew they were pretending. They pretended you did not exist, because they wanted your mother to be able to have an abortion, or take the morning after pill, and feel guilt-free. They wanted to use abortion as an undo button for children. In the back of their minds, they knew you were a living human being. Yet many self-centered people would have you put to death (abortion) anyhow, because ending/preventing possible future difficulties was more important to them than your life. "Abort" means "stop"; abortion is stopping your life. In reality, abortion is killing innocent helpless human beings.

It is wrong to kill you in order to save your mother from carrying you. Your DNA declares you are not a part of your mother's body.

Many people will say "It is a matter of opinion, if abortion is putting someone to death". It is not a matter of opinion; science declares abortion is ending a human life. The human life is present before the abortion, and the human life is gone after the abortion. You, the new individual, go from being alive to being dead. If someone chooses to believe otherwise, it does not change the facts (science).

Some people will point out that various governments give a mother a right to go to an abortion center, and have a doctor put her son or daughter to death. Many people use their government's permission in their attempt to justify abortion. They need to remember they are going to be judged according to God's rules on judgment day. If you had an abortion, you need to repent and amend your ways.

Why do people believe having a doctor put you to death (abortion) should fall under healthcare? Nobody is sick. They just want to get rid of you.

I hear people saying "It is a woman's choice. But the choice is between letting her son or daughter live, or having him or her put to death at an abortion center.

The protesting of putting innocent, healthy, defenseless human beings to death (abortion) is not confined to religion; the protesting comes from all genuine caring people.

A pregnant woman isn't going to have a baby;
she already has the baby inside of her.

I believe children should be named as soon as their sex is known, and from that point on, he or she should be referred to by his or her name. We need to stop referring to the child inside their mother as an "it"; We need to refer to the child as "he", "she", or "the baby", to indicate the child is presently a living human being.

If everyone based their judgment on reality, truth, and facts, we would have the full rights of a human being, starting at our conception.

The following confirms you were an existing living authentic human being (an individual) from conception:

- You existed
- You were human
- You were alive, growing new cells containing your DNA
- Having your own personal DNA proves you were an separate individual, and not a part of your mother's body.
- Biologically, you were tissue, just like the adults.

It is basic simple science.

You are your mother's son or daughter, whether you are living inside or outside of her body.
